Planning Manager Jennifer Arnold stated this item is to consider the City initiated annexation of approximately 3,800 acres into the corporate limits of McKinney. This item is to receive public comments from the interested stakeholders in the annexation area. There will be no action tonight. We will also provide the proposed service plan for review by the annexation area stakeholders. There are some required elements per State law including police protection, fire and emergency medical services, fire prevention, solid waste collection, water, sanitary sewer, streets, parks and recreation, environmental health code enforcement, planning and zoning and what we consider miscellaneous City facilities and City owned properties. As required by State law, any City that is initiating an annexation of this nature is required to provide full City services to any other residence within the corporate limits of the City. Water and sanitary services and capital improvement plans are what people look to during an annexation of this nature. The service plan restates that the City is not necessarily required to go out and extend public services immediately after annexation but to extend the opportunity for those property owners to access those services in the same manner by which we do that for any other resident of McKinney. Included in the 3800 acres for the proposed annexation, about 3500 acres of that area is encumbered by agricultural properties. Those property owners were offered the Development Agreement for up to a ten year deferral for annexation. If they do not sign the Development Agreement, they are annexed in immediately. In areas where water and sewage services do not exist and people have a septic tank, they will be able to continue using that system in perpetuity or until such time that a single-family home goes away and an office building or some other use occurs which will trigger the developer to construct the infrastructure. If there is vacant property, the City does not extend that service for that private development. As soon as the private developer comes in to build on that property per our subdivision ordinance, they are required to develop that infrastructure at that time. We are simply obligated to provide the capacity for those services. Following annexation, anything that is occurring on the property legally today will be considered a legal, non-conformity. Ms. Arnold noted that action on this item will occur on November 15th. It will be on the November 7th meeting agenda but we will ask Council to table it at that time until the November 15th special meeting. Mayor Fuller called for public comments.

Mayor Fuller called for Council and Manager Comments.

Council member Shemwell thanked London Kohlberg, McKinney North High School, a cross-country runner for speaking tonight. It takes a lot of courage to stand up and I appreciate you taking time out of your busy day to come join this meeting. There were a lot of things said about politics, a lot of things said about promises made, a lot of things said about taking away people's rights. There was a lot of examples of slavery and African Americans fighting for their rights and I know all about being a minority and feeling like my voice is falling on deaf ears. That's one of the things that I ran on was to give a voice to those that have felt voiceless and I intend to stand with that promise and at the end of the day I don't owe anybody anything. I don't know any developers personally that want to build in our ETJ so my only one goal was to do the right thing and the right thing for the people of McKinney and to make my Mother proud. The gentleman said he is here and it is his 25th wedding anniversary and I appreciate you and your wife being here today. I had a son today at 4:46 p.m. and I sacrificed to be here with you all as well. The work we put in to make sure that we ensure the quality of life for everyone in the City and the work that you've put in being here, organized, putting your thoughts together, is not unnoticed. We appreciate you taking your time and thank you for being here.

Council member Branch congratulated Council member Shemwell on the birth of his son. I want to thank all the people who came out here and expressed their first amendment rights. I appreciate you all expressing your passion.

Councilwoman Rath stated that speaking is not my gift but I think I could probably take everybody to task on the amount of notes and the amount of research I do on every project. It's just who I am. Sitting here and having the benefit of being here over the last two years, I've heard of lot of you before and some of the things I've heard very clearly are that we need to protect the ETJ and make it part of the progress of this City and this community. That we need the City's help with the developers knocking on doors asking people to sign waivers for a thousand dollars to give away their deed restriction. As we grow, we need to have a plan in place and plan for growth and development. We need to focus on infrastructure. McKinney must start planning now. There is nothing easy about sitting here and we are faced with some very difficult decisions that will affect our City for a very long time. I also want to thank you for being here and I look forward to continuing to respond to your emails as quickly as possible. This was a busy weekend for that and to let your voices be heard and hear your voice because we are hearing you.

Council member Philips thanked everyone who spoke this evening. I heard a lot of words of wisdom and heard good guidance from many of you tonight. I heard a common theme that reminded me of a situation that I encountered as a young lawyer in McKinney, Texas, 23 years ago when I presented to a judge an order that I could have gotten by default. The Honorable Judge John McCraw handed the order back to me and said, son, you can do that, but does that put the reputation that you want out there. And yes, legally we can do this, but that is not the reputation that I want for the City of McKinney. I will continue to vote against any forced annexation under the terms of which this has come about.

Council member Elliott thanked all the folks that attended. I love local government because each and every person can come here and be heard and be on record forever which is I think a privilege being a part of our community. I think it is a huge privilege to serve on Council and I want to thank each and every one of my fellow Council members for their insight, their dedication to task, for being here right after their son is born. I respect each and every one of these folks for what they bring to the table and Councilwoman Rath is right, it's not easy and there will be things that we decide each individually and as a group that some folks will agree with and some folks won't. After a lot of research, after a lot of folks reaching out to us, I would prefer we do this another way. I will be voting against the current annexation proceedings. My preference will be there are some great folks in the City, so many great citizens, I would like to see us proceed with annexation by collaboration instead of proclamation.

Mayor Fuller stated he wanted to address a quote that was read. I appreciate the person that put the entire video online and let me clarify for those that don't know, I absolutely said the words that were read. It was in response of you listening to the video about the Arch Resort properties specifically and the fact that after a particular milestone in the lawsuit failed, the annexation was done by the City. I did not agree to that specific annexation. I was also asked during the campaign about the involuntary annexation of property east of Highway 5, which every City Council member at that time, including those opposed to it today, voted for. I spoke in favor of that during the campaign. Those were two different annexations, one of which I did not agree with and one which I did agree with. There are specifics; they are not the same. All that said, I had a long conversation with Tracy Thomas and I told her my mind is still open. I respect people's opinion but I'm not telling you how I'm going to vote yet. My mind is still open and I'm still receiving information and for me, it would do an injustice for me to have made up my mind because I think there are things that still need to be said, education still to be learned. Some of the things I heard tonight, I will take time to think about, review with City staff and with the City Attorney on some comments that were made that bring me concern. This is a process and it is about education. Also, there's been a process of real disrespect. I heard somebody make a comment about how they are disgusted by some of the things that they've heard. I echo that. I've heard terms sleazy, unethical, corruption, pile of crap, and spent fees like it's water. It's disrespectful and those comments shouldn't be allowed in this room. If I knew you were going to say it, I wouldn't have let you make them. They're disrespectful to the people up here. Congratulations, Mr. Shemwell, I didn't know you had a son today prior to being here and he's here to serve. You want to talk about sleazy and corruption and unethical, shame on you who did. For those of you who disrespected the requests to not applaud, shame on you. There are things I heard tonight that hadn't been presented and I'll be looking into those and having conversation with staff. My mind is open but I'll tell you it's a tough job to have an open mind when you have some of you handling yourselves the way you are. You're not doing yourself a service and I don't mean that globally because there were some very articulate and respectful presentations that were given and thank you, but the one way street on respect is unacceptable. We don't give up our lives to be here to be attacked, believe it or not, and I keep hearing the statement don't take the easy road. What do you think is the easy road? Do you think the easy road is to sit up here and talk out loud about some of the things I believe are not positioned to everyone in this room? That's not easy. It would be far easier for me to just acquiesce as long as I don't believe it's the right thing to do. If that is where I end up at the time of the vote, it will be knowing that it was a hard decision to make, not the easy one. I don't know what I'm going to do in the next four years, if I'm going to run or not, but frankly I could care less. The decision I come to will be based on what I think is the right thing, not on threats. We're up here to try to do a job for you guys, so just try to remember that and try to be respectful like you are asking us to be. There's a few comments that were made about City services and you don't need them. The City pays and subsidizes most of the expense for the fire service in the ETJ, obviously most of you don't know that because you keep making comments about the fact that you don't need it. You do need it and you have it now, we're subsidizing a great amount of that service. That's on the side of things that I consider when I consider on the pro side of annexation. As I said, there have been some people who presented some things that cause me concern and I'll speak with staff and our City Attorney. I will maintain that for those who want to reach out and have a respectful and mature discussion with me, because as I said, I will reserve my vote for the actual date it was supposed to go and I'll keep my mind open until then.
